A circular library stamp from the University of Michigan Library, dated 1900. The stamp is faint and appears to be a carbon copy or a light ink impression. It features the text "UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LIBRARY" around the perimeter and "1900" in the center.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint smudges, characteristic of old paper. There is no text or other markings on the page.
